

Pedro Nava for Attorney General

Traveling around the state, I have met many Californians who are supporting me in this highly contested race. They believe that California deserves someone who will represent their interests.

As Attorney General, no other candidate brings my life experience. I have been a prosecutor, coastal commissioner, small business owner and legislator. My story represents many people of California whose families came to this State with hope and a dream. I worked my way through school as a box boy and am a proud union member. I am the only candidate with a 2008 100% AFL-CIO COPE voting record.

A coalition of more than 110 environmental organizations across California are joining me to fight the oil industry to stop dangerous drilling off California's coast. I am the only candidate to receive a perfect 100% score from the California League of Conservation Voters and was named "Legislator of the Year 2009" by the Planning and Conservation League. As the next Attorney General, I will work to prosecute environmental polluters and hold them accountable.

As the next Attorney General, public safety will be my highest priority. I will partner with peace officers from across California to collaboratively improve neighborhood safety.

As Attorney General, I will use the office to make sure that all ballot measures are represented to the voters in an honest manner. For example, the title and summary of the so called "Public Employee Paycheck Protection Act" must clearly discuss that the initiative substantially reduces or eliminates labor unions from participating in the political process thereby giving big business an advantage over working class Californians.

I was proud to support Proposition 89 (Clean Money), and have endorsed the California Fair Elections Act. As Attorney General, I will work hard for broader public financing of campaigns. It works in Arizona, and it will work here.

As Attorney General, I will make sure public health concerns are given great attention. I will staunchly defend a woman's right to choose. I will also work with professional licensees to ensure both fairness and an appropriate amount of oversight at the state level.

I know that California's young people are struggling unlike the past several generations. Higher education is less affordable and accessible, student loan debt is appalling and this tough job market is not a welcoming environment.

When young people engage in the democratic process, Democrats win. You are in the trenches dealing with our changing world and you have ideas for what solutions we can try. I want to hear your ideas and work with you to bring back the California Dream. I hope that you will join my list of supporters and endorse me, Pedro Nava, for Attorney General.
